Kids Need Art!

Now more than ever, kids need enriching arts programs that grow their faith and hope. School closures earlier this year due to COVID-19 have left students challenged by the loss of on-site learning environments that expand and develop cognition, and creative expression, stunting educational achievement.

The Art to Hearts Outreach will nurture spiritual growth and hope for underprivileged kids in Immokalee, Golden Gate and East Naples. By leveraging partnerships with local organizations, Storytellers Creative Arts will come alongside them to bring hope and healing to hundreds of children and youth, building & strengthening faith communities. Boxes include bibles, gospel-centered lessons and arts projects, and other fun activities for children and families to do together.

“Of the many struggles for children, created by the pandemic, two of the most significant ones in our community are the loss of opportunities to engage with the gospel and the loss of opportunities to participate in the arts. Gospel-centered art boxes meet both of these needs, and will provide local children and families with the tools to pursue faith and art in these extraordinary times! Thank you Storytellers!”
